Dear: _____

Thank you for submitting your Manuscript for publication in the Journal of Taiji Science (JTS). In order to publish your submission, it is required to sign our standard Copyright Transfer Agreement, that transfers to us the necessary rights to publish your work during the time the work is under copyright protection. As is normal, the publication of an author's Manuscript cannot proceed until we have received a signed copy of this Agreement.

If your work, which is identified here as The Manuscript, is not accepted for publication, or if The Manuscript is subsequently rejected, this Copyright Transfer Agreement shall become null and void. For the purpose of this agreement the author's "Manuscript" (alternatively known as The Manuscript) means the author(s) submitted work including any embedded media that has been submitted for publication in the Journal.

A. COPYRIGHT

1. All authors confirm as part of this agreement that there are no other known authors, and they own all relevant rights to all the work contained in The Manuscript.

2. By signing this agreement, all authors will transfer all necessary rights to JTS to permit JTS to publish their work for commercial purposes, and when required to re-use all supplied image that are contained in The Manuscript. This right to re-use images may involve the sale of the authors images, photos, sound recordings and any supplied text to other third parties; and the modification of the author's supplied images, photos, sound recordings and supplied text.

3. In addition, it is agreed that any supplied copyrightable material can be used by JTS to create cover pages for the JTS journal, and/or to create video media. The use of the author's images photos, sound recordings and any supplied text for advertising purposes may also be used on merchandise and other products in any manner that JTS deems necessary to advertise either JTS, or the author's work to a wider audience. The author(s) also agree that this agreement permits JTS to translate the author(s) submitted work to other languages.

4. If the author's Manuscript is accepted for publication, the author(s) assigns to the Journal of Taiji Science (JTS), and any company that subsequently owns the Journal, all rights to publish, republish, transmit, sell, distribute and use the author's Manuscript in whole or in part in electronic and print editions of the Journal and in any derivative works throughout the world, in all languages and in all media of expression now known or later developed, and to license or permit others to do so, for the full term of the copyright, and during any and all periods generated by any extensions or renewals of the copyright.

5. After publication, any reproduction, posting, or transmission, or any other distribution of the Accepted Manuscript, either in whole or in part, will require the author(s) to include a citation that points to the Journal of Taiji Science, where the citation follows the format Title of Article, the author(s) name(s), The Journal of Taiji Science, Volume/Issue, year, and page number in the event the reference is to a print copy of the author's paper. A direct links to the final article is encouraged to aid dissemination of the author's work, whenever possible.

B. RETAINED RIGHTS

Where applicable, the Author(s), and/or the author's employer, will retain all copyright, and patent rights, in any process, or inventive idea that is described in The Manuscript.

C. USES BY THE CONTRIBUTOR

1. As part of this agreement, the author(s) of the version of The Manuscript accepted for publication has the right to self-archive the Manuscript on the author's personal website; to make reprints; and to transmit, print and share copies of The Manuscript with colleagues.

2. There is no restrictions for the reuse of any images or text for direct commercial purposes by the author(s).
